

Author's Note

Some license was taken with regard to Milwaukee and Eagle River geography. I would like to acknowledge the following works for inspiration and for some facts I twisted to my evil purposes. Credit them for anything I managed to get right. Any mistakes are purely my fault...

The Beast Within by Adam Douglas (Chapmans Publishers Ltd.; 1992).

Beauty Bound by Rita Freedman (Lexington Books; 1986).

Contemporary Perspectives on Serial Murder by Ronald M. Holmes and Stephen T. Holmes (Sage Publications; 1998).

The Ojibwa by Helen Hornbeck Tanner (Chelsea House Publishers; 1992).

Pornocopia: Porn, Sex, Technology and Desire by Laurence O'Toole (Serpent's Tail; 1998).

Psychological Reflections on Cinematic Terror: Jungian Archetypes in Horror Films by James F. Iaccino (Praeger Publishers; 1994).

Serial Killers: Death and Life in America's Wound Culture by Mark Seltzer (Routledge; 1998).

Serial Killers: The Insatiable Passion by David Lester, PhD (Charles Press; 1995).

Serial Murderers and Their Victims by Eric W. Hickey (Wadsworth Publishing Co.; 1997).

Sexual Homicide; Patterns and Motives by Robert K. Ressler, Ann W. Burgess, and John E. Douglas (Lexington Books; 1988).

Tales the Elders Told (Ojibway Legends) by Basil H. Johnson (Royal Ontario Museum; 1981).

Traditional Ojibwa Religion by Christopher Vecsey (American Philosophical Society; 1983).

Wisconsin Chippewa Myths and Tales* by Victor Barnouw (University of Wisconsin Press; 1977).

Witchcraft, Lycanthropy, Drugs and Disease* by H. Sidky (Peter Lang Publishing; 1997).